Major adaptations to your home

If you are struggling to get about in your home you should always look at the solutions which will give you the most independence. It may be worth looking at our pages on Regaining your independence, Help with walking and mobility, and Equipment to help at home for some possible tips.

However sometimes it may be necessary to make some significant changes to your property to make it easier for you to move about and use your home safely and independently.

Adaptations to consider
