Wheelchairs

If you are experiencing difficulties getting about independently then there may be other options available to you before you need to think about acquiring a wheelchair - take a look at our Equipment In Your Home and Regaining Your Independence pages for some suggestions.

However sometimes people find that they need a wheelchair to get around at all. And others may need one at least some of the time, perhaps when they go outside, or when they are feeling particularly tired or unwell.

This page provides advice on how you can acquire a wheelchair when necessary.
